Statement of Objects and Reasons

In accordance with the farsighted vision and policy of decentralization of His Majesty the fourth Druk Gyalpo, King Jigme Singye Wangchuck and keeping with the change in time and rapid socio-economic development in the country, it is high time that like many deliberative assemblies, the National Assembly of Bhutan also finds it useful to delegate responsibility for certain tasks to small groups. The National Assembly may refer a particular matter to a committee if the matter warrants detailed examination, if the Parliament wants more information, or if it wants to hear views on the matter. These tasks are more easily undertaken by a small group of committee members rather than by the members of the National Assembly as a whole.

Committees encourage and enable the National Assembly members to develop special interests and expertise in particular aspects of public policy. They also provide an opportunity for organisations and individuals to make representations to the National Assembly and to have their views placed on the public record. They investigate, legislate, review and draw attention to any important matter that are referred to them and give advice.

Standing Committees are permanent committees established under the National Assembly’s Standing Orders or by resolution of the House for the duration of a Parliament. They are usually re-established at the beginning of each new Parliament and can continue to function until the end of the day before the commencement of the next Parliament. When there is a double dissolution all committees of both Houses cease.

Standing committees permit a continuing surveillance of defined fields of government activity, call upon scholarly research and advice and create an awareness of the Assembly’s ‘watchdog’ function. In order to materialize those objectives mentioned above, the National Assembly Committees Bill has been drafted by the National Assembly Secretariat and scrutinized by the Legislative Committee. The bill is to be tabled before the 82nd Session in compliance with the resolution passed by the National Assembly in its 81st Session.
